VALUES

As a human, a person created in the image of God, I honor and respect you, your concerns, your journey.

I honor God through the gifts, talents, and opportunities He has and continues to provide.

God is not detached, frowning upon us, but through His commitments, He is available, open, ready for a relationship, a personal relationship with you.

We cannot force change upon ourselves. Behavior doesn't trump beliefs. Once we explore our beliefs and have a better understanding of God's working in our lives that is when change occurs!

The New Covenant, Christ's Blood covered our sin, paid the price. God's commitments to each of us are solidified in His Word. His loving nature, our Abba, the Savior is introduced. He shares His unrelenting love to us.

It is because of His commitments to me personally, that I can finally breathe, that I can take in His love and commitments. This IS transformational! The changes in my beliefs change my behavior. It's ongoing, and it's a beautiful process!

To fully understand this, please open yourself to the One who truly loves you!

If you have questions or want to talk, please reach out! I look forward to connecting with you soon!
